PRISONER

AT COUNTY JAIL HAS BECOME
VIOLENTLY INSANE

When Judge Approached Cline Crouched in a Corner and Barked Like a Dog.

Charles Cline, a stranger, who was arrested several weeks ago on the charge of burglarizing the place of Henry Almancay and stealing three hundred pennies, several pints of whisky, and a quantity of cigars, and who was bound over to the grand jury by Mayor Crilly, has become violently insane. He has been in jail ever since the burglary was committed, and a few days ago developed unmistakable signs of insanity. He has gradually grown worse until today he is a howling maniac, and continually crouches in a dark corner of the room where he howls and barks at everyone who comes within sight. Wednesday when the probate judge called at the jail to see him he found Cline crouched in the corner, muttering and emitting low growls. It required the efforts of several prisoners to bring the man out of his corner and into the presence of the judge. He was taken into court Wednesday afternoon, adjudged insane, and will be sent to the State Hospital in Columbus.

Was Followed By a Battle in Which
Hundreds of Soldiers
Were Killed.

London, Aug. 10.—The Tabriz, Persia, correspondent of the Daily News in a dispatch dated Aug. 6, says:

"On July 13 a band of Armenian revolutionists appeared near Outchikissa. Turkish soldiers and Kurds, finding an excuse, attacked and destroyed the villages of Outchikissa Koomlouboujag, Gougau, Karabazar and Sayto, butchering men and assaulting women.

"Two large Armenian bands marching to Sassun to help the insurgent leader Antranik attack the garrisons at Mossunzory and Goutchagh for revenge on July 25. At dawn bombs were thrown into these places, killing many, and severe fighting ensued.

"A majority of the soldiers were killed and the garrisons resembled graveyards. One band forced its way through the Kurdish tribes towards Arjess. The number of soldiers killed amounted to several hundred."

SCARE

Caused in Bishop Potter's Subway Saloon By the Report That Carrie Nation Is Coming.

New York, August 10.—The rumor that Carrie Nation was on her way here caused excitement and dismay at the subway Tavern yesterday. Several tattered individuals who were drinking at the bar gulped down the remainder of their schooners and hurriedly slunk out of the place, glancing nervously up and down the street as they left.

There was much speculation in the place as to what time Carrie might arrive and what she might do to the place. Some of the customers recalled that on her first visit to the city Mrs. Nation visited a saloon in Forty second street kept by John L. Sullivan. Before Mrs. Nation appeared John L. had told his friends that if she entered his place he would "throw her into de sewer."

When the saloon buster appeared, however, it is recorded that the great champion fled upstairs and hid under the bed.

The manager of the Subway Tavern refused to comment on the possibility of a visit from Mrs. Nation, but he kept a wary eye on the doors.

A BOOK FIELD WANTED.

The Post Had a Long Search, but It Finally Turned Up.

Eugene Field was a book collector, and one of his favorite jokes, according to the Philadelphia Post, was to enter a bookshop where he was not known and ask in the solemnest manner for an expurgated edition of Mrs. Hemans' poems. One day in Milwaukee he was walking along the street with his friend, George Yenowine, when the latter halted in front of a bookshop and said: "Gene, the proprietor of this place is the most serious man I ever knew. He never saw a joke in his life. Wouldn't it be a good chance to try again for that expurgated Mrs. Hemans?" Without a word Field entered, asked for the proprietor, and then made the usual request. "That is a rather scarce book," came the reply. "Are you prepared to pay a fair price for it?" For just a second Field was taken aback. Then he said, "Certainly, certainly. I—I know it's rare." The man stepped to a case, took out a cheaply bound volume and handed it to Field, saying, "The price is $5." Field took it nervously, opened to the title page and read in correct print, "The Poems of Mrs. Felicia Hemans. Selected and Arranged With All Objectional Passages Excised by George Yenowine, Editor of 'Isaac Watts For the Home,' The Fireside Hannah More, etc., with the usual publisher's name and date at the bottom. Field glanced up at the bookseller. He stood there the very picture of sad solemnity. "I'll take it," said Field faintly, producing the money. Outside Yenowine was missing. At his office the boy said that he had just left, saying that he was going to Standing Rock, Dakota, to keep an appointment with Sitting Bull.

SENTENCED

Twice to Hang and Given a Sixth Trial on Matricide Charles, Coates Has Been Set Free.

St. Joseph, Mo., August 10.—Wm. Coates, aged 22 left the criminal court room a free man after having been tried five times for the murder of his mother two years ago and having been twice sentenced to be hanged. Coates made several confessions, among them the murder of his mother, and when he was granted a new trial yesterday upon purely technical points. Prosecutor L. C. Gabbert announced his decision to dismiss the charge of murder against Coates. Mrs. Coates was found dead in her home, having been strangled to death. Robbery is supposed to have been the motive for the crime.

THAT NOTE

WAS NOT WRITTEN BY MISS C. KRAUSS

According to a Witness of the Prosecution—Stepmother in the Indiana Case.

Hartford City, Ind., August 10.—It is understood that an important witness has been discovered by Prosecutor Burns, who will testify that Crystal Krauss did not write the note found in her bed after her death on which the attorneys for her stepmother base their theory that she committed suicide.

The witness is Mrs. E. M. Sharpe. It is said that on Tuesday afternoon, the day of the girl's death, after Coroner Hollis had made his first visit to the Krauss home, Mrs. Sharpe saw Mrs. Krauss hastily write something on a pad of paper, tear it out and go upstairs to the girl's room. The state's attorneys, it is said, have secured this pad and the paper in it corresponds to the note Mr. and Mrs. Krauss said was found in the bed.

The note referred to is the one reading:

"Pap: I can't live any longer without Jim."

Mrs. Krauss was seen writing, according to the story, after the bed had been searched by the doctors and by Undertaker Bell and wife and nothing found.

It has been the theory of the state all the time that Mrs. Krauss wrote this note after she saw a death certificate would be issued by Dr. Corey stating that stomach trouble and heart failure had caused the girl's death.

Mrs. Krauss realized, according to the state, that unless the coroner and physicians were made to believe that Crystal committed suicide an inquest and post-mortem would be held and the suspicion of murder might be aroused.

The plan nearly carried, they say, as the coroner was almost convinced at first that it was a case of suicide. But some of the others were not so ready to believe that Crystal had killed herself. W. R. Krauss said that he did not believe his daughter wrote the two notes alleged to have been found in the room and the one written for the strychnine but when asked if he thought his wife wrote them he made no answer other than saying that would be a matter for the courts to decide.

Mr. Krauss said he was familiar with his daughter's handwriting and her language, and he could not believe she was the author of them. He also stated that he did not want the public to think that in any way he was trying to screen his wife.

"What I want to know is whether Crystal died by her own hand or was poisoned, and I will spare no efforts in finding it out. If my wife is guilty she must pay the penalty.

"My position is a most trying one. I loved my daughter and I cannot believe that she killed herself, nor can I believe my wife committed the crime. I have never accused my wife of having committed the crime, nor have I said that she was innocent."

KUROPATKIN

MAY GIVE JAPS BATTLE NEAR LIAO YANG.

Chifu Cable Tells of Death of Thousands and Russians—A Big Fight.

Paris, August 10.—A telegram received by the foreign offices states that General Kuropatkin will not abandon Liao-Yang, but intends to give battle within three or four days.

WITH KUROKI'S ARMY.

London, Aug. 10.—The correspondent of the Reuter Telegram company with General Kuropatkin's force sends a dispatch via Fusan, reporting a Russian attack on Kuropatkin's right. The dispatch, which is very disjointed, reads as follows: "Heavy firing on our right confirms reports that Russian large force is attacking there. Russian prisoners state that Russian army is some times short of rations for two days at a time. Season of rain has been followed by a fortnight of severe heat. Japanese losses up to Aug. 10 were 590 killed and wounded." This statement of losses evidently refers to Kuropatkin's army alone.

THROUGH DARDANELLES.

Constantinople, August 10.—The terms on which the Russian vessels will be permitted to pass through the Dardanelles, it is learned, are as follows: Ships must not carry arms or munition of war. They must fly a commercial flag throughout the voyage. They must go through the straits separately and at long intervals.

THOUSAND RUSSIANS KILLED.

London, August 10.—The Daily Telegraph's Chifu correspondent reports that a great land and sea fight occurred at Port Arthur on August 8 and that the Japanese were repeatedly repulsed. Over a thousand Russians were killed, the correspondent says.

The Russian troops have now been reinforced by the civilians who remained at Port Arthur.

TO RELIEVE KUROPATKIN.

St. Petersburg, August 10.—It is reported in military circles that Lieutenant General Linovitch is marching with troops from the direction of Vladivostok to create a diversion in the rear of General Kuropatkin's army, with the object of relieving General Kuropatkin's force.

The Camels will give a big picnic at Idlewild park Friday, Aug. 12, which bids fair to be one of the largest given this year. Zanesville expects to send up about 500, and a 50-cent rate on the C. M. & Z. has been secured. Other towns will also contribute their quota. A big street parade will be given at 11:30 and a fine program of sports has been arranged for the afternoon including two ball games.

The seeming indifference of the Chicago Tribune and the Chicago Record-Herald in the Presidential contest is cause for worry among Republican leaders.

The editor of Harper's Weekly says that "There can be no denial of the fact that the strongest independent journals of public opinion are lining up for Judge Parker."

Even the Republicans see very little chance of carrying New York this fall. The newspapers of the metropolis are practically unanimous in opposition to Odell, Roosevelt and the outfit who are running Republican politics there. As goes New York, so goes the union.

Reed Smoot's right to a seat in the United States senate was not determined last winter because it would have been dangerous to the Republicans to offend the Mormon vote and not less dangerous to offend all the women in the country outside of Mormonism.

The New York Herald as the result of a careful canvass of the rural districts of New York on the gubernatorial nomination finds that Colonel Lamont is apparently the choice of the Democrats: that Mayor McClellan has many supporters and a pronounced sentiment exists for John B. Stanchfield in some parts of the state. Charles W. Goodyear is frequently mentioned. The Herald says on one point all Democrats are agreed—that the choice should be of that man who can bring Judge Parker the best support. The Republicans favor Root on the ground that his candidacy will give the greatest aid to Roosevelt in the great state where he is unquestionably making a doubtful contest.

Mr. Bryan Becoming Decidedly Confident.

Mr. William J. Bryan as the crisis of the political campaign nears is becoming more decided in his declarations in favor of the election of Judge Parker, the Democratic candidate for president. In passing through Chicago on Sunday, on his way home from a lecturing tour, Mr. Bryan stated his opinion in this way:

"Judge Parker is certain to be elected. Every bit of information I have been able to gather indicates the success of the Democratic ticket. I want to see the ticket elected and intend to do everything in my power to bring about that result."

"Is this not a change in your former attitude?"

"No; I hope the ticket will be elected. I believe the elevation of Judge Parker will bring about a reorganization of the Democratic party. He will put an end to the military, swaggering spirit that has been inculcated and fostered by Roosevelt. The country is eager for a change, and we are to have it."

Mr. Bryan stated that he would speak in several states during the canvass, but would confine his labors mainly to his own state of Nebraska. It is further said on good authority that Mr. Bryan will probably be a candidate for United States senator in Nebraska at the fall election, to fill a Republican vacancy.

The Indian and Himself.

Representative Clarence D. Van Duser of Nevada had been assailing the swindling western mining companies that, with bogus pamphlets and reports, fleece persons in the east, says the Chicago Record-Herald.

"But it is a wonder to me," he said, "that a certain one of these companies has any success at all, for it is conducted by an illiterate and thick headed man as I have ever seen. This man is a character. For instance:

"One day he gave me a long harangue on the Indian's love of whisky."

"Why," he said, "once give an Indian a taste of whisky and he'll sell his very soul to get more. I was riding over the plains once with a pint bottle sticking out of my breast pocket, when an Indian happened along, and as soon as he saw the pint he wanted to buy it."

"And do you know what that Indian offered me? Well, sir, he offered me his buckskin breeches, his shirt, his saddle, his blanket and his pony—all for a pint of whisky. What do you think of that?"

"And you," said I—did you sell?"

"No," said the miner, "I didn't. It was my last pint."

A Prominent Democrat.

William F. Sheehan, friend and political adviser of Judge Alton Brooks Parker and who is to take an active part in the presidential campaign, has long been a prominent figure in New York politics.

Mr. Sheehan is a native of Buffalo and as a boy sold newspapers. Later he studied law, and in 1881, at the age of twenty-two, he was admitted to the bar. Entering the political arena he was elected to a seat in the New York assembly in 1885. He was six times re-elected, rose to high political power and was speaker of the assembly in 1891. The same year he was nominated for lieutenant governor on the ticket headed by Roswell P. Flower and elected.

About ten years ago Mr. Sheehan removed to New York city and engaged in the practice of corporation law, in which he is said to have made a comfortable fortune.

Edison Amends an Epigram.

Francis Bacon Crocker, professor of electrical engineering at Columbia university, recently wrote to Thomas A. Edison for a photograph of the latter large enough to hang in the office of the electrical department at the university and also requesting Edison to inscribe the picture with some motto that might be helpful to the students. In a few days a large photograph of the inventor arrived, and at the bottom of it in the large, strong, well defined handwriting of Edison was the following:

"All things come to those who hustle while they wait."—Success.

THE PARAMOUNT AND OTHER ISSUES

(New York World.)

The World's statement in its "Open Letter to Mr. Roosevelt" that "the paramount issue of this campaign is not, as you would have it, free trade or free silver, but YOU yourself—Theodore Roosevelt"—has been received in many different ways by the press.

Some of the half-cock party organs, that usually "go off" without stopping to think, joyfully accepted the issue, saying that "Roosevelt the Rough-Rider" is "just the boy" the great hustling, bustling, "get there" American people are eager to make President in his own right. He would, they said, have the cowboy vote solid and the West is ablaze for him. Another section of the press deprecated a "campaign of personalities," and with the solemnity of an owl rebuked the World for suggesting it. They were too dense to discriminate between a Personality and personalities.

Another view was taken by the able and independent Boston Herald, which said:

Roosevelt as an issue cannot be separated from his party. The World's letter, taken with its supplementary enumeration of "the real, living, burning questions of the campaign," makes this plain. It is the policies of the Republican party, when they are antagonized by different policies of the Democratic party, that make the real issues.

The World, of course, recognized this fact in formulating its Living Questions. It said only that "the paramount question" is Mr. Roosevelt himself.

Ordinarily it is "Principles, not Men," that determine the course and decide the result of a presidential campaign. But, as the World said, the personal issue is this year forced upon the country by Mr. Roosevelt's "unusual temperament and talents"—his "strong, able, ambitious, resourceful, militant, passionate personality"—his "versatile and surprising genius."

When a man so completely dominates over his party as President Roosevelt has done—reducing to sub-

ROSEBUDLAND LOTTERY

Incidents of Distributing the Prizes at Chamberlain, S. D.

SOLDIER WINNER OF THE FIRST.

Fascious Crowd Cheered Wildly For Private William McCormick of the Second Nebraska Regiment—Greeted Anna M. Adden of Dentonville, Kan., as "the First Lady of the Rosebud."

Here are some incidents of the Rosebud reservation lottery personally conducted with such eminent success by Uncle Sam and recently closed in the frontier South Dakota village of Chamberlain, says a special correspondent of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Twenty-four hundred farms were the prizes. When the big churn had been whirled for five minutes and the names thoroughly mixed, and a boy, chosen by lot from a list of eight, had drawn the first name and it was found to be that of William McCormick, the crowd cheered wildly for the man who had been presented a fortune of $15,000. McCormick is a veteran of the Spanish-American war who served gallantly in the famous Second Nebraska regiment. By drawing the first number of the 107,000 in the big lottery he earned first choice of the 2,500 quarter section farms to be given away.

The method of drawing was simple enough. One hundred and seven thousand envelopes, perfectly plain, were received in their original boxes. The name and address of one applicant for lands written on a card were placed inside of each envelope, which was then sealed. The envelopes with these inclosures were then replaced in the original boxes and these sealed and numbered consecutively.

The big "churn" in which the envelopes were to be mixed was simply a solid wooden box 2½ feet square and 10 feet long. It was not nearly large enough to hold all the envelopes, so the numbers of the sealed boxes were placed in a hat and carefully mixed in full view of the assembled multitude. Then numbers were drawn from that representing enough boxes of envelopes to fill the churn, and the boxes with the corresponding numerals were promptly dumped into the churn.

The churning process consisted in agitating the big box, which was hung on a swivel, by turning a crank. This was kept up for five minutes and then the drawing began. The crowd was full of advice and facetiousness.

Commissioner Richards of the general land office, his assistants, Judge Wakeley of Omaha and P. P. Sherman of Sioux Falls, and several others occupied places on the platform. The crowd could see everything. Eight boys, all living in Chamberlain, had been selected to do this drawing for the first day. They were Arthur Rogers, James Stevens, Edgar Clute, Lionel Grandpre, Clinton Laughlin, Lucky Somers, Lucien Baker and David Gausway. When Gausway's name was announced the crowd thought it was Gausway.

"Well, make him vice president," yelled somebody, and the crowd roared. "Lucky's the boy for my money," roared a man with a fog horn voice, when Lucky Somers' name was called, and he was, for he drew the privilege of taking the first name from the box. When the box stopped revolving after the churning process, Lucky stepped forward, and there was silence at once. The cover was removed from the small opening through which the envelopes were to be taken out, and Lucky, standing on a big box so that he would reach to the top of the churn, inserted his hand (he could not see inside) and drew out an envelope. He handed it to Judge Wakeley, who examined it and passed it to Mr. Sherman, and he in turn to Commissioner Richards. The crowd was holding its breath. There really didn't seem any excuse for men moving so deliberately.

"Hurry up, please, I want to get a turnip crop in," shouted a pale faced man at the front of the stand. His voice was thin and piping, and in the tense silence the entire crowd heard him distinctly. The commissioner had just turned to the crowd to make his announcement, but the crowd had a new idea. The thin man's anxiety to get to his farm and plant his turnips before it should be too late carried the thought off its feet, and in an instant it was shouting with laughter. But the interest was too earnest for this to last long. Commissioner Richards held up his hand for order, and he got it.

"William McCormick, whose last post-office address was Lancaster, Pa., draws the first chance," he announced. The crowd was not pleased at first. Nebraska, South Dakota and Iowa furnished three-fourths of the applicants, and here came a man all the way from Pennsylvania to draw the $15,000 first prize, for the first quarter section, sure to be used for a town site, was figured easily worth this sum.

"Who is he?" demanded somebody after a spasmodic effort at cheers had resulted unhappily. The commissioner had turned to the record books and had the information at hand in a moment. "He's twenty-seven years old, five feet six inches high, unmarried, was born in Philadelphia and served in the Second Nebraska in the Philippines during the Spanish war," called out the commissioner.

That made it all right. The winner was a Nebraskan and a soldier of the famous Second Nebraska that saw more hard fighting and earned more glory than perhaps any other volunteer regiment that was sent to the Philippines. The Nebraskans in the crowd started the cheering and everybody joined.

"We'll marry him to the first girl that comes out of the box," yelled a man with a voice like the angel Gabriel.

The crowd remembered it. The drawing went on with only abated interest. The numbers came rapidly and were announced. Talus Rugges was No. 2. His address was announced as Tea, S. D. "He'll want something stronger than tea when he gets the news," piped the humorist with the thin face and falsetto voice.

H. Wesley Brown, Dakota City, Neb., was No. 3. The crowd disappeared of its parting his name in the middle and made sundry jocular remarks. When the drawing had reached No. 24 the first lady's name was down.

"Anna M. Adden, Dentonville, Kan.," announced Commissioner Richards.

"Come on, Billy McCormick. Here's yer superior two-thirds!" came up from the thin man's falsetto.

"First lady of the Rosebud," volunteered another.

"Send for the preacher!" from the megaphone.

"We'll run 'em both off the reservation if they don't invite us to the wedding," announced another.

Miss Adden was cheered lustily, and that evening the health of "the first lady of the Rosebud" was drunk all over town.

Iowans, South Dakotans and Nebraskans will divide honors about equally. They will get about 80 per cent of all the lands.

After it was all over the land office clerks made the discovery that they had given an erroneous residence for McCormick, and instead of living in Pennsylvania he was a resident of Lancaster county, Neb. The announcement was made on the evening of the first day of the drawing, and the westerners were greatly pleased to learn that after all a real westerner had drawn the big prize.

The town which will get more than any other is Sioux City, Ia., because it is near and almost 20 per cent of its 50,000 people registered.

SUN PARLORS A FAD.

New Yorkers Building Them on Roof Tops.

Believing that untold good will derive from them, many wealthy New Yorkers are having the roofs of their residences equipped with sun parlors, and it is thought that in time many less wealthy persons will be able to spend three or four hours a day during the winter months in the warm rays of the sun, says the New York Journal.

The first New Yorker to inaugurate these sun bath parlors is Robert H. McCurdy, manager of the Mutual Life Insurance company. He has ordered plans from his architects for a sun bathing parlor on the roof of his fire proof residence at 11 East Ninth street, and it is expected that it will be finished some time in December.

The parlor will have a southwestern exposure, and the McCurdy family will have the benefit of Old Sol for many hours during a bright day.

F. W. Winterburn, a representative of Mr. McCurdy's architects, said:

"Physicians have always recommended plenty of sun during the winter months, especially for people who are slaves to any pulmonary disease. A few hours in the sun each day will do untold good to anybody, whether sick or well. The health resorts of Lakewood and Colorado are sought just for the warm rays of the sun. Why can't we have health resorts of our own right here in New York? The sun is the same in all parts of the world when remitted through glass, and there is no reason why the sun in New York won't be as beneficial to lung diseased people."

"PAP WILL BEAT PARKER."

Archie Roosevelt Says His Father Knows Enough Not to Lose.

Archie Roosevelt, son of President Roosevelt, was in Indianapolis an hour or two the other night en route to St. Louis. As he stood at the gate entrance awaiting his train's departure some one asked him why his father did not come with him, says the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

"Because he is too busy getting ready to be the next president," he replied.

A gentleman then said to him that Parker would occupy the White House after next March.

The boy laughed as he replied, "Well, now, we have lived there for several years, and I guess my pap knows enough not to let Mr. Parker beat him out this time."

Object of Old Maids' Club.

At the annual meeting of the Old Maids' league of Bristol, Wis., held the other night, four of the leading young women of the village were elected to membership, says a Kenosha (Wis.) dispatch to the Chicago Inter Ocean. Before they were admitted to the mysteries of the organization each of the girls was forced to take an oath that she would use all honorable means to become a wife during the next twelve months. The girls initiated under this original obligation were Misses Lulu Rowbottom, Lydia Curtis and Jessie and Jennie Garland. It is claimed that none of the girls is engaged to be married, but the work of the league has been so successful in the past that 80 per cent of two to one are made that all the girls will be married before the end of the year.

A Park at Virginia's "Bloody Angle."

A syndicate of northern capitalists has purchased the McCool and Fairchild farms near Fredericksburg, Va., which form a portion of the battlefield of Spotsylvania Courthouse and on which the celebrated "bloody angle" is situated. They propose, says the Baltimore Sun, to restore the battleworks, erect suitable monuments and convert the property into a park.

INTERURBAN

CONTRACT IS AWARDED TO MR. F. H. BLODGETT.

Branch Between Zanesville and Crooksville, Fifteen Miles Long. Is to Be Built at Once.

After many delays, the contract for building a part of the tracks of the Southeastern Ohio Railway, Light and Power company, was awarded Tuesday to F. H. Blodgett, of Wheeling, W. Va. The contract is only for the branch between Zanesville and Crooksville, a distance of 15 miles. The work must be done by February 1, of next year, and will probably be commenced within the next 30 days.

In all, there were about 30 bids received. It necessarily took some time for the promoters of the road to go over the bids and decide upon the successful one. Mr. Blodgett is a prominent railroad contractor. He built the line of the Columbus, Newark & Zanesville interurban between Zanesville and Newark last year, and is well known in Newark.

Mr. Blodgett has been doing some construction work at Portland, Ind., where he has 20 teams at work. These will be brought to Zanesville within a month, when the work on the local branch will begin. Mr. Blodgett has also contracts at Wheeling, and when these are finished, the men employed there will be brought to Zanesville.

Of Licking County, Tied For First Place in Declamatory Contest at Wooster.

Mr. Owen G. Osborn of Licking county, tied for first place in the Declamatory contest of 1934, a yearly feature in the Wooster Summer school. The Wooster Republican says:

"The best contest in years, racy, close, and the kind that counts, was held in Taylor hall Thursday evening, with the following program: 'Battle of Fontenoy,' O. G. Osborn; 'The ace,' Mae E. Gruveldinger; 'Virginia,' Charles Foster; 'Toussaint L'Ouverture,' Roy Summer; 'Our Flag,' A. L. Palmer; 'The Fireman's Prayer,' Leola Caldwell. The contest was so close that no one was able to name the winner each doing finely. The ranking system tied Mr. O. G. Osborn and Miss Mae Gruveldinger. A final resort to figures gave Miss Gruveldinger first."

LUTHER LEAGUE

Edward Nehls Appointed Delegate to National Convention to Be Held at Buffalo.

The Senior Luther league convened last night in regular business session, President Nehls presiding. Mrs. Ottman's paper on "Justification by Faith" was very interesting, followed by a general discussion, then a brief talk by the pastor. Miss Anna Hiatt reported for the delegates, who were sent to the Zanesville district convention held at Roseville on the 28th of July. Edward C. Nehls was appointed delegate to the national convention of the Luther league to be held at Buffalo, N. Y., on Aug. 15, 16 and 17. The next meeting of the league is on Aug. 23, at which time the following papers will be read: "Sanctification," Mae Van Dueson; "The Saltzbergers of the Savannah," Mae Markham; "Lutherans in All Lands," by Cornelius Miller. The social part of the evening is in charge of Misses Leitha Lippen-cott, Nilsie Divine, Mrs. Mary Henry, Messrs. Leonardo Evans Pastor and John Strobel.

OBITUARY

BIRDIE MAY ROWE.

Birdie May Rowe, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Rowe died at the parents' home, 457 Ridge avenue at 2 o'clock Wednesday morning of cholera infantum. The funeral takes place Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

JARED DANIELSON.

Jared Danielson, an old and highly respected citizen of Macomb, Ill., died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Sarah Conger, 408 East Washington street, in that city, on Sunday morning at 2 o'clock of old age and a complication of diseases. The funeral services were held at the First M. E. church and were conducted by the Rev. Thomas Doney, and Rev. T. J. Claggett on Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Interment was made in Oakwood cemetery.

The deceased was born in Licking county, O., July 17, 1816, and was aged at the time of his death 83 years and 14 days. On January 2, 1839, he was united in marriage to Mary Ehrman. This union was blessed with thirteen children, nine of whom are living. In 1873 the family went to Illinois, located in Scotland township. The deceased resided there until 1887, when he retired from active work and moved to Macomb, where he resided until his death. Mrs. Danielson died March 23, 1902.

Jared Danielson was an honest, upright man. Although he was not a member of any church, he many years ago professed Christ, and has lived a truly Christian life. He is survived by the following children: Moses E., of Civer, Ill.; Mrs. Rachel Baker, of Newark, O.; John, Mrs. Sarah Conger, Mrs. Amzie Randolph, of Macomb, Ill.; George of Scotland township; Samuel and Robert of Los Angeles, Cal.; and Mrs. Mary Hesh of Peoria, Ill. He leaves 39 grandchildren and 38 great grandchildren.

need have no fear of the ordinary ailments and mishaps of mankind. Hamlin's Wizard Oil is a safe and reliable remedy for all such accidents. It will keep the oil in the bottle in two days. It is a household supply.

Starbuck, Minn., April 13, 1901. I have been in bed for four weeks with a sprained back caused by too heavy lifting. I have tried almost everything to cure it. Seeing what Hamlin's Wizard Oil had done for others I tried a bottle and in two days I was able to work.

JOHN SMITH.

Santa Barbara, Cal. My child fell from a high chair upon a hot stove and burned its forehead and nose of face severely. It suffered intensely for three days, when we commenced using Hamlin's Wizard Oil. The pain was relieved in twenty minutes and the burn healed in about five days.

"Here, in Colorado, is the crest of the continent, its supreme uplift, where from a vast central plateau itself 6,000 feet above the sea, rise hundreds of granite peaks into the regions of perpetual snow. Here the waters of a continent are divided and great rivers flowing to either ocean have their source. Here are canyons, gorgeous, awe-inspiring and stupendous which testify to the hoary age of the mountains they have cut asunder. Here are the continent's treasure vaults, where veins of gold and silver seam the granite mountains. Here are medicinal springs for healing and refreshment, and here, under skies of deepest blue, lies a sun-bathed land with a climate whose delights and perfections the lowland dweller may not know."—Geo. Rex Buckman.

MADE IN NEWARK. YOU DON'T HAVE TO PAY THE FREIGHT.

Breech-loading firearms are generally supposed to be quite modern, but as students of the subject are aware, some very curious experiments with breech-loaders and revolvers were made at an early date. Thus there was recently sold at auction in London a bronze breech-loading cannon, four feet six inches in length, which was cast in 1563. It was a relic of the Armada.

Warm Weather

How the Wise and the Foolish Women Stand It

"GOODNESS me, what a warm day! I feel as if I should die!" As Mrs. Foolish exclaims this she fans herself vigorously.

Mrs. Commonsense rocks to and fro comfortably. She doesn't seem to mind the heat at all, but perhaps there is a reason for that. For one thing she wears no collar. Any woman can tell you what a difference that makes. The neck of her thin dimity gown is cut away a trifle and edged with a dainty bit of applique. The dress itself, as I said, is of dimity, made rather simply, but with openwork insertions to let in the air. Mrs. Foolish, on the other hand, wears one of the stiff starched linen so called "tailor made" shirt waist dresses, and her long suffering neck is incased in the most towelly and thick of four-in-hands. Her pedal extremities likewise boast the heaviest thing in patent leathers, while Mrs. Commonsense has on a comfortable pair of slippers—not of patent leather.

"I'm sure I don't know why I mind the heat so!" wails little Mrs. Soakley as she absorbs her fifth (or is it tenth?) "cooling" beverage in the roof garden of the Hotel Up-and-Going. And she doesn't realize that all these fizzy (some of them alcoholic) compounds are only aggravating her misery after their first delusive effect has worn off. And Miss Oldfashioned—the heat simply kills her! She wakes up more than half dead in the morning. Why on earth does Miss Oldfashioned sleep on a soft mattress when a hard one is what she wants in hot weather, so that she won't sink into it? And why doesn't she move her bed right next to the window, even at the risk of musing somewhat the prim orderliness of her room? And why doesn't she leave her transom down so as to make a current of air? You can't have too much air in your sleeping room.

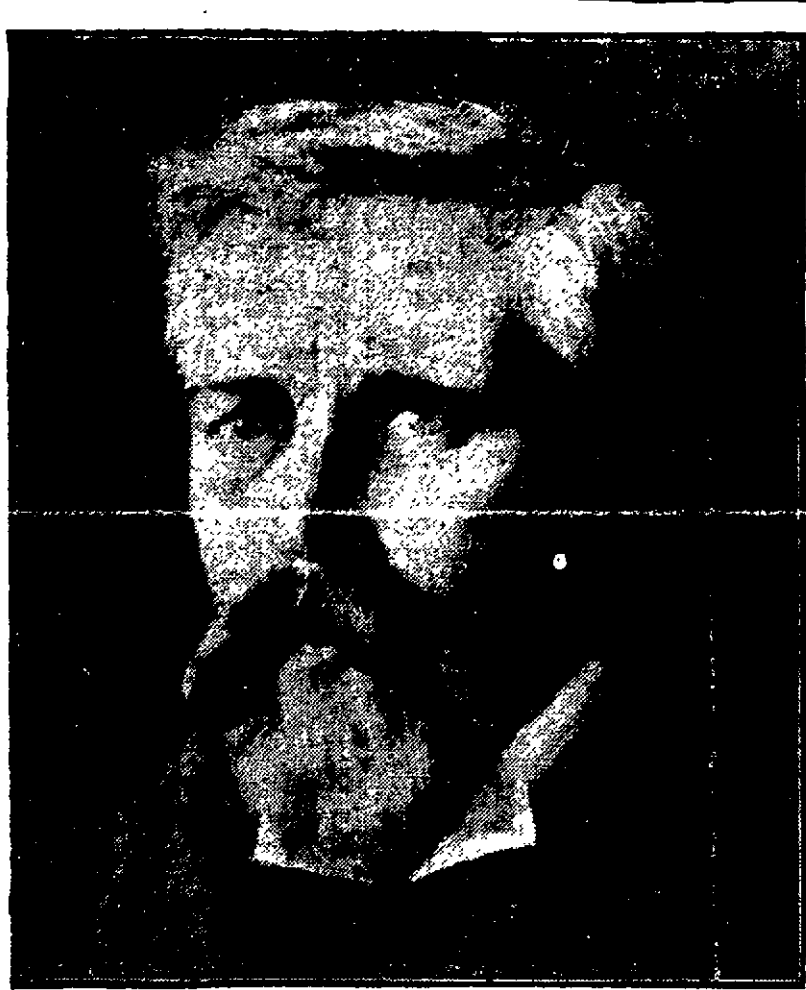

Then here is another thing. Little Miss Jones, the stenographer down at the office, simply has her nerves worn to a frazzle. She thumps away at the keys with an excitable air distressing to behold, while at the same time she wilts under the heat. What is the trouble with Miss Jones, and what will cause the nervous breakdown she will soon have? Simply a case of mistaken diet. Miss Jones believes in the strengthening powers of meat regardless of the thermometer; also coffee is her favorite beverage. Consequently she eats meat about three times a day with coffee, iced or otherwise, on the side. If Miss Jones would try a vegetarian diet during the dog days her temper, her complexion and, most of all, her health would strangely and wonderfully improve.

Perhaps Miss Star, the actress, is the most sensible of all. She gets enough gaiety and fine dressing during the season to appreciate the absence of it, so she goes to a farm where she saves money and acquires rosy cheeks and health for the vicissitudes of the coming winter. The heat has no terrors for her as she lies on the grassy bank by the river, taking a real rest, for the ground is always cool when a washable gingham frock permits you to lie close to it, and there is almost always a breeze in the trees overhead.

Also Mrs. Wisdom, who stays in town, doesn't manage so badly either. She makes her apartment cool with awnings and shades, she lies around in muslin negligee reading the most airy and interesting of literature, she takes baths with sea salt in her commodious bathtub, and in the evening she goes to some roof garden or to an informal gathering at a friend's house, where lemonade and small talk help to pass away the hours. She keeps hubby by her side, if she has a hubby, and if Mrs. Wisdom is a widow she doesn't lack for society, I can assure you!

Above all, neither Mrs. Wisdom nor Miss Star allows herself to drink or worry during the hot days, and perhaps that is the main reason why both feel the heat so little.

OVER THE BORDER

A thrilling romance of the times of Oliver Cromwell which will be printed serially

IN THIS PAPER

Those of our readers who have enjoyed "Jennie Baxter, Journalist," "Tekla," and other fascinating stories from the pen of Robert Barr know what to expect in "Over the Border," which reviewers call the best story he has written.

PRAISE FROM THE PRESS

San Francisco Evening Post:

One of the best that has as yet come from his versatile pen.

Boston Herald:

A prince of story tellers is Robert Barr, and right well does he deserve his title in "Over the Border," a dashing historical romance, full of sweep and swing and carrying the reader gayly from start to finish.

St. Louis Post Dispatch:

"Over the Border" impresses one as being the best work yet done by the author and may be read with genuine satisfaction.

Washington Post:

This is the best we have had of Robert Barr's efforts, and all of them are good, from his "Luke Sharp" sketches in the Detroit Free Press years ago, up through his magazine short stories and his novels.

This Is Not a Book Advertisement. "OVER THE BORDER" will be Published Serially in Our Columns, Beginning in an Early Issue

A TRUTHFUL INDIAN.

He Didn't Get Tired Like the Rest, For a Very Good Reason.

Clement Scott, the English dramatic critic, took a profound interest in the American Indian. He had at his tongue's tip a hundred incidents where-with to illustrate odd phases of the Indian's character.

"There was a farmer in the west who was hard put to it for help upon his farm. Indians were plentiful in the neighborhood, but they were poor workmen. Always tired, they would put down the hoe or rake as soon as the master's back was turned, and selecting a cool spot, they would lie down on the grass and sleep the day away.

"But one morning a very tall, robust Indian asked the farmer to give him work.

"No," said the white man, "you will get tired. You Indians are always getting tired."

"Oh, no," said the other. "This Indian never got tired. This Indian not like the rest."

"Well, I'll try you," said the farmer, and he engaged the man. He put him to work in a wheatfield; then he went away for an hour or two. When he returned he found the Indian asleep under a tree.

"Here, wake up here," he cried. "You told me you never got tired."

"Ugh," said the other, yawning, "this Indian don't. But if he not lie down often he would get tired just the same as the rest."

A THRILLING SHOT.

An Incident in a German Performance of "William Tell."

When a performance of the drama "William Tell" was given at a certain German theater it was announced that the stage effects in the play were extremely fine and that the scene where Tell's splendid marksmanship was made apparent would astonish every one. The audience waited as patiently as they could until that scene and were certainly astonished.

The scene arrived where Tell was to shoot the apple from his devoted son's head, and the apple and Tell's crossbow were connected by an invisible wire, along which the arrow was to speed to the target.

At the proper cue the arrow did speed halfway toward the apple, and there stuck, to all appearance in mid-air. In vain did the doughty Tell shake his bow to carry the arrow to its mark. The son of Tell looked very frightened and didn't know what was happening.

The apple, firmly fixed on his youthful cranium, was bobbing about, the audience was laughing, and the laugh burst into a roar when one of Gessler's guards took in the situation and, coming forward from his position at the side of young Tell, calmly gave the arrow a smart rap with his spear, when it sped on its way and buried itself in the apple on the boy's head.

Wisdom of the Cat.

We may like cats or we may not like cats, but we must all confess that the cat is our superior. He uses us, in his eyes we exist for his delectation, we provide warmth and milk, we are a hearth rug to be jumped on and sat on, a curry comb to titillate him. In this aspect the cat is vastly superior to the dog, which is faithful to those who maltreat him, while a cat's fidelity takes the form of gracious adherence to those who serve him. He has proof of his philosophy. We knew an old lady, lodging in the suburbs, who spreads bread on the lawn every morning for the sparrows. Every morning, as the sparrows ate, the kind old lady's cat, ready behind the box bush, took his toll. How could he doubt that his mistress, his servant, was at the normal task of doing him service?—Saturday Review.

How Sea Birds Get a Drink.

"When I was a cabin boy," said an elderly sailor, "I often used to wonder, seein' birds thousands of miles out to sea, what they done for fresh water when they got thirsty.

"One day a squall answered that question for me. It was a hot and glitterin' day in the tropics, and in the clear sky overhead a black rain cloud appeared all of a sudden. Then out of the empty space over a hundred sea birds came dartin' from every direction. They got under the rain cloud and they waited there for about ten minutes, circlin' round and round, and when the rain began to fall they drank their fill.

"In the tropics, where the great sea birds sail thousands of miles away from shore, they get their drinkin' water in that way. They smell out a storm a long way off; they travel a hundred miles, maybe, to get under it, and they swallow enough raindrops to keep them goin'!"—Portland Oregonian.

Oxford Training.

The average citizen, if asked what was taught at Oxford, would probably reply, "Useless learning." And in many ways it is a true answer, for its aim is not to turn out doctors, lawyers and merchants, ready made, but men with carefully trained minds, fitted not for this or that profession, but for the whole conduct of life. It is contended that such a man will insensibly take a wider view of his subject than the specialist, for he approaches it from a different standpoint.—London Outlook.

DETAILS OF DRESS.

Smart Summer Wraps—Flowered Muslin For Afternoon Gowns.

The three cornered shape is still considered extremely smart, and so is the marquis shape in clip and panama. In general it may be said that millinery is simpler than it has been for some time. Straight brims are being affected, and often a large sailor hat will have no trimming on it save a bunch of roses or leaves and small berries.

BLACK CHINA SILK WAIST.

ries. Coq feathers, too, are very smart, especially in white, and one sees great numbers of these on the mid-summer millinery.

Very smart wraps are made of white linen trimmed with bias bands stitched and applications of coarse lace. Coarse linen embroidery combining different shades of dull red, blue and green is mounted on white silk and makes a striking trimming for white linen suits and coats.

Flowered muslin is among the smartest materials for afternoon gowns. It is either made up over white or the tint of the flowers with which it is ornamented. The flowered nets are often made up over contrasting shades, such as blue figurines over a pale green, lavender over pink, etc.

The picture shows a black china silk waist with a shirred arrangement giving a long shouldered effect. It has a smart V shaped yoke and a trimming of ball end tassels.

MILLINERY NEWS.

High Crowned Hats—Accordion Pleated Gowns of Chiffon.

The new high crowned hat trimmed with plumes is very pretty, but at the same time rather trying to some faces. This high crowned hat made in white or in black crinoline is one of the prettiest frames for a really pretty girl's face, and the coiffure arranged in loose waves really is particularly adapted to this.

A great many leading Parisiennes are wearing soft black gowns relieved by touches of pink. Rose pink is much in evidence now, from the palest to the deepest shades. It looks equally well in satin messaline, taffeta or muslin.

A pretty gown seen recently at a fashionable wedding was of embroidered mousseline de soie in black. It was worn with a beautifully pointed band of rose color, with revers of pink embroidered velvet and a picture hat of shaded rose color, the brim of which was lined with pink chiffon and draped with black chantilly, the crown being trimmed with deeper rose colored plumes. Some bridesmaids' gowns also seen recently were of rose chiffon mounted over rose taffeta and finished with very wide, long chine sashes.

Many effective frocks for girls are made of accordion plating, and here again shaded chiffons are much in vogue. Blue and brown chiffons are also treated in the same way with incrustations of dainty dyed lace and pointed silk belts.

The picture shows a dotted linen dress trimmed with coarse linen lace and a red tie and belt.

J., and Ocean City, Md., on Thursday, August 18, 1904.

Atlantic City, N. J., the most popular of the hundred or more resorts along the Atlantic Coast, is pronounced the finest watering place in the world. This great American Seashore Resort has kept pace with the times and prospered. The hotels have grown in number and size. Prosperity and popularity are with it.

The surf bathing which has made Atlantic City famous is one of the wonders of the world. The sight during bathing hours defies description; men, women and children in bathing costumes of varied hues form a picture to be seen only at Atlantic City.

Aside from the seaside features, Atlantic City has amusements of every kind. Great iron piers extend hundreds of feet into the ocean. Each pier has its summer theater and band stands, and for a nominal price one can enjoy the comfortable chairs of the pier and listen to the music of the bands throughout the entire day, if he so wills it.

The proximity of Atlantic City to all the big central and western cities, by reason of the excellent through train service of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, makes it the resort of the masses.

Tickets will be available on all regular trains, and will be good for return twelve days, including date of sale, thus giving ample time for an enjoyable outing. Stop-over within limit of ticket will be allowed at Philadelphia, Pa., and Washington, D. C., on return trip.

CONVENTION AT JERSEY ELECTS OFFICERS.

Addie Anett, of Centerburg, Chosen President and Mrs. L. M. Beaver, of Jersey, Vice President.

Jersey, O., Aug. 10.—The third annual Rebekah convention of District No. 53 met at Jersey, O., Thursday.

All lodges in the district were represented except Johnstown. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. G. H. Berger.

The following program was rendered: Address of welcome by the president in behalf of Euterpean lodge, response by Sister Anett of Centerburg, Sister Osborn, Pataskala, Sister Ingalls, Westerville, Prof. Brown, Etna.

Paper by Sister Mcssmore, Centerburg lodge.

Address by Past President Mary F. Ingham, Columbus.

Address by Grand Secretary Emma M. Bell, Columbus.

Remarks by Sisters Whitehead and Doughty of Newark lodge.

In the business meeting, the following district officers were elected:

President, Addie Anett, Centerburg; vice president, Mrs. L. M. Beaver, Jersey; secretary, Mrs. Jessie Bookman, Westerville; treasurer, Mrs. Joseph Osborn, Pataskala.

The president appointed for warden Nellie Hoskins of Jersey; conductor, Minnie Kennedy, Westerville; chaplain, Mrs. Richard Williams of Jersey; left guard, Mrs. Dustin, Centerburg.

An invitation was then extended to Past President Mary F. Ingham to install the officers-elect, which she performed in a very pleasing manner. The convention adjourned to meet at 7:30 p. m. During the recess a fine supper was served in the hall by Euterpean lodge to all visitors and members.

At 7:30 convention convened in secret session. After singing and prayer by the chaplain, the secret work was explained, by Mrs. Ingham and Bell, after which the president announced the remainder of the meeting to be an open session.

The following program was then listened to.

Song, "America."

Report of Ohio Rebekah assembly by District Delegate Emma Ingalls, Twilight lodge.

Talk by Emma M. Bell, Columbus. Music by female quartette of Euterpean lodge.

Recitation, Mrs. R. B. Harrison, Euterpean lodge.

"Paper Work of Our Order," Minnie Kennedy, Westerville.

Recitation, Lucy Anderson, Euterpean lodge.

Solo, Florence Berger, Jersey.

Recitation, Etta Osborn, Arbor Vitae lodge.

Recitation, Mrs. G. H. Berger.

Sun-bonnet drill by Euterpean lodge.

Convention then closed to meet at the call of the president at Centerburg in 1905. After partaking of ice cream and cake all visitors departed for their home, declaring this a very successful and enjoyable convention.

GHOST FELL

AND A DOCTOR WAS CALLED TO REPAIR ITS NOSE.

Practical Joker at Marion, Ind., Who Pursued Harry Baker Found in Unconscious State.

Marion, Ind., Aug. 10.—A ghost has been frightening persons near Ohio and Sherman streets for several weeks, and no one has been brave enough to make a thorough investigation of the affair. The apparition came at 9 o'clock at night, as the curfew whistle sounded, from between two certain houses, would make a short tour, return to the place of starting and disappear.

Elbert Abbott, 18 years of age, was returning home one night last week when he was confronted by the ghost, which was standing on the sidewalk with its long white arms extended and attired in white from head to feet.

Abbott was so badly frightened that he hardly knew what he was doing, but threw his arms about the form, which struggled wildly and disappeared. Abbot then ran home and reported his adventure.

Harry Baker, 17 years of age, was confronted by his ghostship as he was walking along the street. Baker was badly frightened, and started to run, the ghost pursuing him. The ghost ran against a tree, broke its nose and was rendered unconscious. When the flowing white robes were removed it was learned that they covered Oscar Demmick, a practical joker of the neighborhood.

It was necessary to call a physician to reduce the fracture and dress the wounds.

FINAL ORDERS

For the Big Ohio National Guard Maneuvers Are Issued at Columbus.

Columbus, O., August 10.—Adjutant General Critchfield has issued the final general orders for the big military maneuvers at Athens. He orders division and brigade commanders, with their staffs, and the post's quartermaster sergeants, and those of the commissary and medical departments, to proceed to camp on August 13.

Hereafter Johnson's siding, in Athens county, on the Hocking Valley railway, will be known as Herrick. The little village is named after Governor Herrick, for it will be at this point that the headquarters of the governor and of the O. N. G. will be established during the military maneuvers next week. Besides this is the first time that a state has undertaken maneuvers the big mock battles will be watched with interest by military men throughout the country. Governor Herrick will move his office to the camp for the week.

The governor received a message yesterday from his cousin Sam, who is at Bonesteel S. D., that the first town in the Rosebud Agency was named Herrick, in the governor's honor. The town is 72 hours old, and has a population of 700. This makes two "signal" honors for the governor in one day.

"I regard New York as essential to his success," replied the ex-Senator. "But New York, in my judgment, is certain to give Judge Parker a good majority."

"How will the Populist national ticket affect Democracy's chances?" Mr. Jones, was asked.

"I do not see why it should affect them at all," he responded. "I do not believe the Democrats have anything more to lose on this account than have the Republicans, and I am sure the Republicans are deceiving themselves if they rally believe the Populist ticket will inure to their advantage."

POLICE PUZZLED OVER CASE AT COLUMBUS, O.

A Bookkeeper Found Tied Hand and Foot.

Lying By Railway Track—Clarence Dye Had Been Chloroformed and Then Robbed.

Columbus, O., Aug. 10.—The police are mystified today over one of the most puzzling cases that has come to their attention for some years. Clarence Dye, a bookkeeper, was found near the crossing of the B. & O. and N. & W. tracks in an unconscious condition, with his feet bound and his hands tied behind his back. The police think that either robbery or revenge was the motive of the desperate characters, who were seen with him early in the evening, to bind him securely and throw him on the railroad tracks, where the first train would run him down and kill him.

About 10 o'clock last night the police were advised of the affair and because of the unusual circumstances five city detectives were assigned to the case. In addition three railroad detectives have been working on it. While all agree that the man was robbed of about $500, it is thought that other motives prompted the contemplated murder.

Dye, though bound hand and foot, worked himself off the rails and thus escaped death under the wheels of passing trains.

In the pockets of Dye was found an unsigned receipt which read that in payment of $300 notes given to a Mr. Hammon and due Aug. 1, 1904, the receipt was to be signed. Officers Churches, James and Smith of the department, and Detective Freeman of the Pennsylvania, went to the scene and they learned that three men had been in that vicinity. An examination of the territory showed that Dye had been conveyed there in a rubber-tired rig drawn by one horse. Dye was under the influence of chlorform, but where the would-be murderers found him has not been ascertained.

Captain Dyer, of the police department has made every effort to unravel the mystery, but up to an early hour this morning without success.

Dye was placed on an eastbound Pennsylvania track near Shepherd's Station, and just as a train was approaching he recovered sufficiently to roll from the track. Railroad men heard him cry, "My God, there comes No. 20," and it was then that the yard men rushed to his assistance.

Dye was at once conveyed to St. Francis hospital. He is crazy from fright and the effects of the chloroform.

STORY

From the Pen of Robert Barr Will Appear in Advocate Next Thursday.

On page two today is presented a picture of Robert Barr the celebrated author, whose thrilling and gay romance, "Over the Border," will be published in the Advocate beginning Thursday, Aug. 11. The Washington Post says of this new story: "This is the best we have had of Robert Barr's efforts, and all of them are good from his 'Luke Sharp' sketches in the Detroit Free Press years ago up through his magazine short stories and his novels." Watch for the opening chapters in Thursday's Advocate.

The Sultan of Turkey has 71 titles, and on the parchment containing them are the words: "As many more as may be desired can be added to this number." Among the titles are "Abdul Hamid, the Eternally Victorious," "The Eternally Smiling," "The Eternally Invincible," "Distributor of Crowns to his Heroes Seated on the Thrones" and "Shadow of God on Earth."

BY A HORSE

EDWARD P. WATERS WHO FORMERLY LIVED IN NEWARK

Was Badly Injured In Zanesville—Struck By a Buggy While Crossing in the Street.

Zanesville, O., August 10.—Ed P. Waters, formerly of Newark, once a postal clerk on the B. & O., but now owner of the Waters' new laundry, was knocked down by a horse and carriage and severely injured. Mr. Waters and a friend, H. D. Wemple of Rochester, N. Y., were crossing Main street, to enter the Clarendon where the latter gentleman was stopping and when nearing the curbing of the south side of Main street, Mr. Waters noticing a pocketbook stopped and turned it over with his cane.

W. S. Frazier, the Seventh ward contractor, was driving rapidly up Main street at the time, and as Mr. Waters stopped, the shaft of Mr. Frazier's buggy struck him. He was whirled around by the blow and fell striking his left hip on the curbing. At the same time the horse trampled on his feet.

A number of persons from the Clarendon ran to Mr. Waters's assistance and he was taken into the hotel. Dr. H. L. Geyer was called and later Mr. Waters was removed to his home on South Fourth street.

Mr. Waters' hip was painfully bruised and as he is somewhat crippled from rheumatism in that hip, the injury is the more serious. A severe gash was cut across the top of one of his feet, and the horse kicked him. The shoe was torn open, clear across. Mr. Waters will be confined to his home sometime by the injuries.

ENGAGED

To Be Married Today, He Killed Himself and Then His Neighbor Followed Suit.

Findlay, O., Aug. 10.—Two suicides within two miles of each other, both prominent citizens of Hancock and both due indirectly to the same cause, occurred yesterday.

Gustave Brunner of Jenera took a quantity of morphine and died from the effects. His mind was temporarily unbalanced. In the morning he seemed in the best of spirits. Shortly after 8 o'clock the young man started to read a book. His mother was startled to hear her son enter her room and exclaim: "Mother, I've taken poison, and am going to die." He then took a second dose. A physician was called and worked for several hours without success.

Brunner was to have been married today to Miss Mary Staer, who is prostrated with grief over the death of her fiancé.

About the same time Samuel Dame, a wealthy farmer, west of Jenera, hanged himself in a stock tank. Mrs. Dame has been insane for some time, and her husband had been in constant attendance, not having slept for the past week. Temporary insanity, it is believed, resulted in the self murder.

FOR OUR READERS

Robert Barr's Best Story

We have secured the rights for "Over the Border," by Robert Barr, author of "Tekla," "Jennie Baxter, Journalist," etc., and will begin the serial publication

IN OUR NEXT ISSUE

Robert Barr has won an enviable place among the successful authors of the day. He has written nothing better than

Over the Border

Critics regard it as his masterpiece. Following are the opinions of a few taken from a large number of complimentary reviews:

It is a fine, gay romance, with a yellow haired cavalier and a lady whose locks are like the raven's wing. The story goes with a sweep and swing that take the reader gallantly to the end and give him a pleasant time by the way.—NEW YORK TIMES.

"Over the Border" is a strong story of one of the most interesting periods of English history, and there are no weak spots in the story.—INDIANAPOLIS SENTINEL.

A genuine old fashioned romance in which the hero is both physically and intellectually a giant, the heroine beautiful beyond the dream of a Mohammedan, and with no faults visible to the eye. It deals in swordplay, hairbreadth escapes, wild riding and love.—CINCINNATI TIMES-STAR.

A thrilling romance of the struggle between King Charles the First of England and Oliver Cromwell. The love story is an intricate one, but it is so well told that it is followed with ease, and the climax holds one spellbound.—CHICAGO EXAMINER.

This is one of Mr. Barr's best books. It is not a complicated story. The figures of the drama are not numerous, but they are original and striking.—THE CHURCH STANDARD, PHILADELPHIA.

Robert Barr's "Over the Border" is a dashing, clean, sword and pistols love story, in which we meet King James, Strafford, Cromwell, Pym and one of the nicest pairs of lovers that ever galloped through dark nights and hairbreadth escapes.—NEW YORK OBSERVER.
